A Grand Display of Military-Literary Exercises Where Washington Took the Oath.

PRESIDENT HARRISON AT ST. PAUL'S.

About S o'clock President Harrison and Vice-President Morton left the residence of the latter, with a mounted escort, for St. Paul's Chapel, the members of the Centennial Committee following in carriages. The course down Broadway occasioned cheers all along the line, to which the President and Vice-President responded, bowing right and left. The Presidential party reached St. Paul's Chapel just at 9 o'clock. Broadway was jammed, but the President easily made his way to the chapel from the Vesey-street entrance, whence he was escorted by a committee of the vestry of Trinity Church to Washington's pew. The interior of the church was decorated with flags and potted plants, and the ancient coat-of-arms was over Washington's pew. The church was filled with ticket-holding worshipers. The new British Minister, the Spanish Minister, ex President Cleveland and Senator Evarts were among the prominent people occupying seats during the services.

The sermon was by Bishop Potter, whose discourse was historical and eloquent. course was historical and eloquent.

At the close of the religious exercises the President and party were escorted in carriages to the Sub-Treasury in Wall street.

LITERARY EXERCISES. Elbridge T. Gerry, in opening the literary exercises on Wall street, at the Sub-Treasury Building, reminded the audience that it was on the same spot where Washington first took the oath of office, and the Bible on which he took oath was present. Rev. R. S. Storrs then uttered the invocation, giving thanks for Washington's example, praying that the nation might conexample, praying that the nation might con-tinue in favor and making a special plea for the Chauncey M. Depew's Brilliant Review of the History of the Republic.

Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, the eloquent orator of the day, was next introduced and made a ringing patriotic address of nearly an hour and a half. In his opening remarks he said: "We celebrate to-day the centenary of our nationality. One hundred years ago the United States began their existence. The powers of for each principle they could point to the grave of an ancestor whose death attested the ferocity of the fight and the value of the concession wrung from arbitrary power. They knew the limitations of authority, they could pledge their lives and fortunes to resist encroachments upon their rights, but it required the lesson of Indian massacres, the invasion of the armies of France from Canada, the tyranny of the British Crown, the seven-year war of the revolution, and the five years of chaos of the Confederation to evolve the idea upon which rest the power and permanency of the republic, that liberty and union are one and inseparable.

"The traditions and experience of the Colonists had made them alert to discover and quick to resist any peril to their liberties. Above all things, they feared and distrusted power. The town meeting and the Colonial Legislature gave them confidence in themselves, and courage to check the Royal Governors. Their interests, hopes and affections were in their several Commonwealths, and each blow by the British Ministry at their freedom, each attack upon their rights as Englishmen, weakened their love for the mother-land and intensified their hostility to the Crown. But the same causes which broke down their allegiance to the Central Government increased their confidence in their respective Colonies, and their faith in liberty was largely dependent upon the maintenance of the sovereignty of their several States. The farmers' shot at Lexington echoed round the world, the spirit which it awakened from its slumbers could do and dare and die, but it had not yet discovered the secret of the permanence and progress of free institutions. Patrick Henry thundered in the Virginia Convention, James Otis spoke with trumpet tongue and fervide eloquence for united action in Massachusetts, Hamilton, Jay and Clinton pledged New York to respond wish men and money for the common cause, but their vision only saw a league of independent colonies. The vail was not yet drawn from before the vista of populati which transferred power from the Crown to the Commons, and gave representative Government to the English-speaking race. And there were those who had sprung from the iron soldiers who had fought and charged with Cromwell at Naseby and Dunbar and Marston Moor. Among its members were Huguenots, whose fathers had followed the white plume of Henry of Navarre, and in an age of bigotry, intolerance and the deification of absolutism, had secured the great edict of relicious liberty from French despotism; and who had become a people without a country rather than surrender their convictions and forswear their consciences. In this Congress rather than surrender their convictions and forswear their consciences. In this Congress were those whose ancestors were the countrymen of William of Orange, the Beggars of the Sea, who had survived the cruelties of Alva, and broken the yoke of proud Philip of Spain, and who had two centuries before made a Declaration of Independence, and formed a Federal Union which were models of freedom and strength."

Vast armies stand in battle array along the frontiers, and a Kaiser's whim or a Minister's mistake may precipitate the most destructive war of modern times. Both monarchial and republican governments are seeking safety in the repression and suppression of opposition and criticism. The volcanic forces of democratic aspiration and socialistic revolt are rapidly increasing and threaten peace and security. We turn from these gathering storms to the British Isles and find their people in the throes of a political crisis involving the form and substance of their Government, and their statesmen far from confident that the enfranchised and unprepared masses will wisely use their power.

masses will wisely use their power.

"But for us, no army exhausts our resources nor consumes our youth. Our navy must needs increase, in order that the protecting flag may follow the expanding commerce, which is to successfully compete in all the markets of the world. The sun of our destiny is still rising, and its rays illuminate vast territories, as yet unoccupied and undeveloped, and which are to be the happy homes of millions of people. The questions which affect the powers of government and the expansion or limitation of the authority of the Federal Constitution are so completely settled, and so unanimously approved, that our political divisions produce only the healthy antagonism of parties which is necessary for the preservation of liberty. Our institutions furnish the full equipment of shield and spear for the battles of freedom, and absolute protection against every danger which masses will wisely use their power.

The spirit of twice was the welfare to the full measure of his greatness, but they must not fall below his standard of public duty and obligation. His life and character, conscientiously studied and thoroughly understood by coming generations, will be for them a liberal education for private life and public station, for citizenship and patriotism, for love and devotion to Union and Liberty. With their inspiring past and splendid present, the people of these United States, heirs of a hundred years marvelously rich in all which adds to the glory and greatness of a nation, with an abiding trust in the stability and elasticity of their Constitution, and an abounding faith in themselves, hail the coming century with hope and joy."

The solemn oceremonial of the first inauguration, the reverent oath of Washington, the acclaim of the multitude greeting their president, marked the most unique event of modern times in the development of free institutions. The occasion was not an accident, but a result. It was the culmination of the working out by mighty forces through many centuries of the problem of self-government. It was not the triumph of a system, the application of a theory, or the reduction to practice of the abstractions of philosophy. The time, the country, the heredity and environment of the people, the folly of its enemies, and the noble courage of its friends, gave to liberty, after ages of defeat, of stantial gains, this immortal victory. Henceforth it had a refuge and recruiting station. The oppressed found free homes in this favored and were wedded to religious liberty. The President's table was at the junction of the stage with the orchestra, so that General Harr son was in full view. Each table was dresse son was in full view. Each table was dressed with the utmost care and skill.

It was a little after 80 clock when the President, escorted by Governor Hill and Mayor Grant, entered the great dining-room. They were followed by Vice-President Morton, and Lieutenant-Governor Jones, of New York, and other distinguished guests. As the party walked down the main aisle of the auditorium all of the assembled diners stood up in recognition of the President's arrival, and the band played "Hail to the Chief." The President's party stood back of their chairs with bowed heads, while Bishop Potter made the opening prayer of grace, and dinner was begun at a signal from the banquet directors.

It was announced that Secretary Blaine was unable to be present, and President Harrison's unable to be present, and President Harrison's address, which was at the end of the list, was scheduled to replace Secretary Blaine's, which was helf way down the tost list.

At the conclusion of the invocation, Mayor Grant rose and read the list of toasts. Governor Hill was introduced as the first speaker, and rose and welcomed the guests. Governor Hill in his address of welcome extended the heartiest greeting to all assembled, to the President and his Cabinet, to all in authority, to the Embassadors and to all citizens.
Governor Hill, in closing his address of welcome, said: "The sentiments of every true American are expressed in the hope that faction may not destroy, that pride may not injure, that corruption may not divide this fair republic, but that its borders may be still further extended, its commerce float upon every sea, the stars upon its flag be trebled, its free institutions live on and flourish and its liberty-loving people continue to work out the problem of self-government, so long as freedom itself exists and until time itself shall be no more." He closed with the sentiment, "Keep, God, the fairest and noblest that lies beneath the sun, our country, our noble country, ever one." GOVERNOR HILL.

me add the thought that we owe a duty to our country in peace as well as in war. Perhaps never in the history of our nation have we been so well equipped for war upon land as now, [cries of "Good! good!"], and yet we have never seen the time in our history when our people were more smitten with the love of peace—to elevate the morals of our people, to hold up the law as that sacred thing which, like the ark of God of old, may not be touched by irreverent hands, to frown upon every attempt to dethrone its supremacy, to unite our people in all that makes the home pure and honorable, as well as to give our energies in the direction of our material advancement. They differ in all things save one each is sovereign, each is equal, and that equality is represented in the Senate group. Thirteen trees were planted by Alexander Hamilton to symbolize the union of States as one forest, yet each as distinct as trees of that forest. Our forefathers planted the Senate in the Constitution, not as a symbol, but as the that forest. Our forefathers plasted the Senate in the Constitution, not as a symbol, but as the 'The Word' made flesh that mankind might see with their eyes and hear with their ears. What is known as courtesy in the Senate flows out of its representative character. Its rational is not that of the courtier who kissed away his hand in courtesy. It has a deeper root than politeness and refinement. It is spirit of the Constitution, the defense of the States to their equals pressed by their embassadors. It is a salute of the star of the State that glistened in the gallery of the United States. In the Federal Convention which framed the Constitution at Philadelphia, the constitution which most disturbed that body was that of the Congressional representation, and Madison said if it could be surmounted all else would be obtainable."

A Dinner that Cost $35,000-Eight Hundred Guests. New York, April 30th.—The Metropolitar opera House was to night the scene of the sec and chief event of the great centennial celebra ion, and the theater of the greatest banque possibly, ever held within the recollection of man. The interior decorations of the now historical building excelled even the spendor and display of the ball celebration of the previous night. The stage and auditorium, connected in the continuous door and auditorium, connected in display of the ball celebration of the previous night. The stage and auditorium, connected in one continuous floor, was the foundation for over a quarter of a hundred tables arranged in double horse-shoe fashien, with seating capacity for 800. Nearly 8,000 wine-glasses glittered at intervals along the array of tables, and 200 waiters, as well-drilled as so many soldiers, stood ready to respond to the slightest wisn of the diners. The tables were elaborately decoated. The expense of the dinner is said to have been $35,000, the wine alone costing an expenditure of nearly $16,000. The bill of fare, in print, was eight inches long and of French construction. It wound up with twelve varieties of wine and three cordials.

Over the President's seat surrounded by flowing American flags was suspended a large picture of the face and bust of Washington. At Mayor Grant's right hand sat the President, and Governor Hill was on the Major's leit. Next to the President sat Vice-President Morton, and the others were Chief Justice Fuller, General Schofield, Senator Evarts, Ex-President Hayes, Bishop Potter, Secretary Proctor and General Sherman. On Governor Hill's side were Judge Charles Andrews, Admiral Potter, Senator Hiscock, Ex-President Cleveland, Speaker Cole of the New York State Assembly, Hon, S. S. Cox, Clarence W. Brown and Eldridge T. Gerry.

THE LAST DAY.

The Programme in Detail for To-Day's New York, April 30th.—The civil parade tomorrow, May 1st, will be a display that will fairly stagger the sightseers. One hundred thousand men will join, and there will be innumerable floats, trucks and devices. The number of people who will participate is immense, and the French citizens are to have a representation in the line, which will be no discredit to the nation which was essentially a friend to through The German-American citizens will make tobably the finest display in the parade. The cats will be artistic, beautiful and costly—in

That Sacramento did not engage in the celebration of the Washington Centennial does not mean that our matured people are wanting in devotion to their land or love of American instituto their land or love of American institutions. But it does bear witness to an apathy upon the question of the value of national celebrations that is discreditable. There are those who tip-tilt their noses and exclaim, "We have too many celebrations;" but this is merely evidence of misconception of the real purpose of all patriotic observances. As a matter of fact we have too few celebrations that relate directly to the substructural history of the republic. Practically there is but one day that is observed with any approach to unanimity by the American people, and that too often is celebrated in a perfunctory manner. Harrison may be accepted for the moment as suggestive of something more than mere coincidence, in the light of the fact that a Harrison was the familiar of Washington, his trusted friend, and was the man who introduced on that eventful day in July the Declaration of Independence and in the light of the fact that the relation between these two Harrisons is that of direct kinship, President Harrison being the great grandson of the Benjamin Harrison who signed the declaration and reported it to the band of patriots who in Philadelphia nearly 113 years ago had the courage to proclaim it. Benjamin Harrison did not die until two years after Washington had been inaugurated. He was one of the Committee of Correspondence that united the Colonies against Great Britain in 1774. He was five times sent to Congress, and besides serving in the legislative bodies of his State, was twice chosen as Governor of Virginia. His third son became the ninth President of the United States, and was the grandsire of the present President. Of course the surd; but it remains that it is a curious historical fact that the Harrisons have been so directly and officially involved in the two great events now so prominent in the thoughts of the people—the declaration of the right of the American States and people to be free and independent, and the idea of any special and overruling direccelebration of the first hundred years of American Presidents.

THE great celebration in New York yesterday, from present accounts, appears to have been so well conducted that it will serve as a model for all future monster demonstrations. The reason for its complete success must be credited to the executive ability of the managers, to whom were intrusted the details of the scheme of the celebration. Ability of that character is of the highest order. Success is most likely to attend any management that does not trust to the "of course" system, that takes nothing for granted, but so orders each little thing that the great things must result. It was attention to minute details that led the New York celebration up to triumph. It was the explicit ordering of each small matter, and the appointment of those to the execution who knew just what to do, and just when to do, and were limited to specific pation for the last fifteen months. Some and clearly defined duty, that made the time ago I read in one of Brandreth's Calaffair an honor to the nation. This exec- endars the case of a gentleman in Albany utive ability was noticeable weeks ago in who was cured of a similar affliction by the advance announcements and in the using Allcock's Porous Plasters. Knowing early arrangements of the committee, the gentleman referred to, I purchased That body has had its trials, and probably three-one I wore on the pit of the stomblundered once or twice, but on the whole the management of the celebration was more than admirable; it was masterly Success appears to have met the efforts in San Francisco, also, to appropriately observe the day, and the State was honored before the pation by its metropolic.

WHAT HAS MADE THE NAME OF PRIESTLEY SO FAMOUS? It is his marvelous Dress Goods. A marvel of dyeing. A marvel in quality. His "blacks" are always black. They never vary from one year's end to another. Match the new with the old---not a shade's difference. No other dealer carries the assortment we do. There is a good reason why they do not. "Best" goods cost more, and Priestley's do not net the big profit that inferior qualities do. Still, as we have often told you, we are satisfied with small profits. The business grows that way.

RIES FOR APRIL.

the Premises?-An Indignation Meeting-Etc.

The twenty-six policemen now on duty in this city are wondering how long they are to be required to "work for nothing and the entire audience drank a toast to yesterday, between the Stocktons and Sacand board themselves." The city has a Board of Police Commissioners, to whom would be able to lend them the smile of game, heretofors. The spectators was forty voice. the law gives certain powers, and among them that of selecting and employing policemen. In pursuance of that authority the Board a month ago increased the police force from fifteen to twenty-five men, beside the Captain. But now comes the City Board of Trustees, who refuse to pay the salaries of the men, on the ground that the police fund has only morey enough to pay the old number of officers (fifteen), and as they could not determine who shall constitute the fifteen, no salaries for the month of April were allowed at the last meeting of the Board.

This action—or rather non-action—by the Trustees has been the chief subject of talk among the officers during the past few days, and has even engrossed the public attention to a considerable extent. The people seem to have been generally pleased at the increase of the force, for it has had the effect of decreasing crime in the city in a marked degree, and the general feeling among citizens is that the men ought to be paid in some way. The Trustees have, in times past, managed to tide over emergencies of this kind, and it is argued they could do so again. It may be that the Trustees were and are still opposed to the increase of the force, but the fact must be horne in mind that at the times the same of the force in the fact must be some in mind that at the same of the force in the fact must be some in mind that at the same of the force in the fact must be some in mind that at the same of the fact must be some in mind that at the same of the fact must be some in mind that at the same of the fact must be borne in mind that at the time the additional men were elected an emergency existed. The city was then apparently in the grasp of a gang of bold and desperate criminals. Citizens were being garroted and robbed nightly on the streets, and houses burglarized. The Governor was waited upon with a strong petition form waited upon with a strong petition from leading citizens, asking for his approval of the Act empowering the Police Commissioners to increase the force. Since these men went on duty the city has had com-parative immunity from lawlessness of a serious character, and it is believed that a large majority of the citizens would declare in favor of the retention of the present entire force, if the matter were left to a

Those who favored the increase of the police force argue that no matter what may be the individual opinions of the members of the Board of Trustees in the premises, they have but one duty to perform at this time, and that is to recognize the action of a co-ordinate branch of the city government, and give it force by declaring the entire body of policemen entitled to their entire body of policemen entitled to their pay. Then, even if they did not have the money on hand with which to pay the salaries of the men, the latter could arrange, for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least, to get their warrants for a time at least to continue to support her, having a large family of her own to look after. She asked the Chief of Police if he would not try and endeavor to get the waif a home, and he said he would do so. It was not long be-

Neither would it be economy on the part of the city, through its legislative branch, of force them to such an issue.

ne question is, how can the money b ared to meet these salaries until the next year's taxes can be levied? It does seem as if there should be some method of solving it. The city is growing rapidlyboth in area and population—and the present force is required to give anything like adequate protection to the lives and prop-

The Fourth of July never comes that they do rometer and fresh southerly breezes. not appropriately honor it, and fitly celebrate the day that gave this nation birth. for the same date last year was 73° and 50° The 9th of September, the day on which with fair weather and brisk southerly winds California was admitted to the sisterhood of prevailing States, always finds them keeping open house, and recounting around the festal boards the events of '49, when the present Golden State was a howling wilderness, the quietness of which was only disturbed by the prowling Indian, the mounted Mexican vaquero, and the hardy pioneers, who were delving for the ficklegoddess in the gulches and ravines of the foothills of the Sierras.

They were the argonauts who blazed the way for hundreds of thousands that followed in their footsteps, and made this glorious commonwealth what she is to-day, the proudest and most promising State in the Republic, and whose fame for climate, scenery, minerals and fruit is known throughout the civilized world. Yesterday, as is their wont, the anniversary of the inauguration of Washington as the first Pre-sident of the American Union, was appro-priately observed in their building on Seventh street. A long row of tables extended from one end of the banquet hall to the other, which groaned under the weight of penetrate his side, causing almost instant the toothsome edibles which made up their fine collation, while the sideboard was well supplied with the choicest wines and liquors, bowls of punch and pitchers of lemonade. Senator Gorman is the only member of the National Committee who resides in this vicinity. He was absent from the city, so no information as to Mr. Barnum's probable successor could be secured from him. A few of the politicians who remained in town said they thought it almost certain that Senator Gorman would be the committee's choice.

Senator Pugh, of Alabama, told a reporter that Senator Gorman's succession was by no means certain "There are," he said, "a good many material matters to be discussed before a new Chairman is elected. He has got to be a good man and acceptable to the great majority of the Democratic party."

"How would you like that place?" was the question put to ex-Attorney-General Garland, who had just come out of Welckers' chewing a toothpick."

toothpick."
"I wouldn't mind," replied the gentleman from Arkansas. "I am out of a job now, anyhow,"
The general concensus of opinion is that the Chairmanship lies between William L. Scott and Gorman as representatives of both wings of the party. Scott would be acceptable to the South, but not to the protection element of the North. The latter favor supporting Randall against Scott, and will force the fight on the issue of protection against free trade.

Grand Celebration in St. Louis. ST. Louis, April 30th.—The centennial day was formally ushered in at 8 o'clock with a salute of 100 guns, while every bell in the city was rung and every whistle on factory, mill and steamboat were blown. At 9 o'clock services were held in many of the churches. The feature of the day's proceedings, however, was the imposing military and civic parade this afternoon.

There were sixteen divisions, including the United States troops, militia, veterans, fire and police departments and many civic societies. The parade was the finest and largest ever witnessed here and was over five hours in passing a given point, the line of march covering many miles. The beauty of the scene was hightened by the profuse decorations along the route. To night a grand mass meeting was held at the Exposition building with appropriate exercises. BLAINE ENTERTAINS THE NEW

Washington, April 30th.— Captain James Crutchett, a well-known citizen here for the past forty years died to-day from caneer of the stomach. He was largely interested in gase experiments, and sunk a large fortune in it. In 1855 he placed a large gas lantern on the dome of the Capitol, which was the first light ever there. At the close of the war he was worth about half a million dollars, and gave many elegant entertainments, including one to the delegation of Japanese Commissioners, who visited here during Grant's first term. His vast wealth was lost in gas experiments.

Death of Captain Crutchett.

Washington, April 30th.—Secretary Blaine has fully recovered from his recent illness, and expects to go to the Department to-morrow. He regrets exceedingly that he was unable to attend the celebration in New York. This afternoon he had an interview with Sir Julian Pauncefote, the English Minister, to make arrangements for his presenting him when the President returns from New York. Thursday was agreed upon as the day.

Murder and Suicide. Somerser (Pa.), April 30th.—Jacob Shaulis, a wealthy farmer, aged 60 years, was found dead, hanging to a tree back of his residence this moraing. Lying in the barn-yard was his young wife, aged 25, fatally wounded, having been shot. It is thought the old man committed suicide, and his two sons, in order to prevent their stepmother from inheriting the estate, shot her. Both boys have been arrested.

CHICAGO, April 30th.—In addition to the new fast train between Omaha and San Francisco the Union Pacific will put on a flyer between Kansas City and Denver, connecting with the Chicago and Alton scheme, but it will not be put in operation this month. Theater Burned.
CHICAGO, April 30th.—The Windsor Theater burned to-night within half an hour after the close of the evening's performance, at which fireworks had been used in the last act. The building is entirely destroyed. Loss, about $50,000.

FAST TIME.

The Lightning Train from San Francisco to Monterey. [San Francisco Chronicle, April 30th.] "There's a mistake in this time card," said a railroad clerk rushing into the office of the Superintendent of the Coast Division of the Southern Pacific yesterday with a copy of the new time schedule in his hand.
"It makes the Del Mon e limited run from Castroville to Morocajo, two miles and one-tenth, in two minutes." That's sixty-three

"Yes; that's the time we're going to make," was the reply of an official. "The new train is a hummer, you know."

And a hummer it is, being the fastest regular train west of Chicago. The new train is a hummer at a second imited left Monterey at 8 A. M. yesterday on its first trip, and arrived here at 11:1: o'clock, being a minute and a half ahead o time. Conductor Gould and Engineer Fifield had charge of the train, and they fully demonstrated the practicability of the new time card, which, it may now be stated, was largely experimental. Conductor Morrison and Engineer Cornwall took the train out again at 2:30 p. m.

The railroad people say that this train is the third fastest regular train running in the United States, the two others being the Baltimore and Ohio and Pennsylvania limited trains, the first of which averages 53\frac{1}{3} miles an hour and is said to be the fastest train in the word. The Pennsylvania averages about 45 miles an hour, while the Del Monte limited averages 39.74 miles an hour on the run from Valencia street to Monterey, a distance of 121.2 miles, made in three hours and three minutes. it not for the steep grade between Valenica street and San Mateo the average would run much higher. Between Hillsdale and Gilroy, 24.3 miles, only 33 minutes are re-quired, the train running at the rate of 46 miles an hour. From Perry's to Madrone three miles are run in as many minutes, and about the same time is made between Madrone and Tennents, and also in the run from the latter station to San Martin. Only seven stops are made on the whole trip from Fourth and Townsend streets. these being at Valencia street, Menlo Park, the Commission.

London, April 30th.—The Parnell Commission has resumed its sitting. Parnell was called and testified that he did not know Peter Delaney was connected with the Amnesty Association. He never heard of any attempt on Justice Lawson's life. He was never a member of a secret society and the late Forster did not know that Biggar was a Fenian until 1877. He advised Biggar to resign his seat in Parliament but Biggar refused. He did not communicate with Ford or the Fenian convicts in America, neither did he meet them there. He first heard of the Clan Na Gael in America. He had not been asked to authorize the payment of £2,000 to "remove" officials. He never sanctioned outrages. He did not know of the payments for the committal of outrages, He did not approve of the suggestion by Eagan, did not approve of the suggestion by Eagan, that Earl Cowper, Mr. Forster, Under Secretary Burke, Justice Lawson and many others be "removed." He could not have approved of such a suggestion, Eagan never having made it. He did not know of the existence of an Invincible did not know of the existence of an Invincible conspiracy until after his arrest in 1883. He had always regarded the Phœuix Park murders as the greatest possible calamity to Ireland. He never had been able to obtain the slightest evidence connecting the League with those murders, excepting the unreliable statements made by the informer Carey. He did not believe the stories about Eagan supplying the Invincibles from League funds.

Americans in Rome. ROME, April 30th.—The Washington Centennial was observed to-day in the American Colege in this city. Right Rev. Bernard J. McQuaid, Bishop of Rochester, and numerous ther Americans were present. Bishop McQuaid, in responding to the toast of "The Day," lelivered an eloquent speech, contrasting the merican volunteer system with the European rrmies, which were drawing on the resources on the people. Major Huntington responded fo the American army and navy.

They Categorically Denied It. BERLIN, April 30th.—The Berliner Tagbla states that at the Samoan conference yesterda Mr. Kasson, one of the American delegates asked whether a secret treaty existed between England and Germany to partition between the Tonga and Samoan islands, and that in reply both Sir Edward Malet, the British Embassador, and Prince Bismarck categorically denied that such a treaty existed.

Los Angeles, April 30th.—During an open-air symnastic performance at the new gardens, a he end of the Temple street cable road this the end of the Temple street cable road this afternoon, a youth named Degrow met with a severe accident. A show was given by the pupils of Professor Merinzo, late of the dime museum, but now proprietor of the gardens. Degrow stood on a pedestal twenty-five feet high, and was to have dropped from the flying-trapeze into the arms of another performer hanging face downwards, about a hundred feet away. The first time Degrow held on to the trapeze too long and went too far, luckily catching the rope ends of the net. trapeze too long and went too far, luckily catching the rope ends of the net.

The audience insisting on another trial, he mounted the pedestal and secured time, but just as he had stepped off both ropes of the trapeze gave way under the strain and he fell to the ground, alighting on his stomach. An exciting scene ensued, the women shricking frantically and the men stampeding to the place where the performer lay. When picked up he was unconscious. It was found that no bones were broken, but the extent of his internal injuries could not be ascertained, no doctor being present. He was subsequently removed to the hospital.
